Self Portrait cell phone case

A self-portrait is a picture created by an artist of the artists face.

Artists Self-portrait - Frida Kahlo, Vincent VanGogh and LaToya M. Hobbs.

Create a self-portrait on a cell phone case

EVERYONE seems to have a cell phone these days, so why not create your own cell phone case that is personal to YOU!

Elements of art that are used in this lesson are- line, shape, color, space.

Instead of drawing your face, you will be drawing symbolic images that represent you.

An example of a symbolic image is a heart which can represent love.

Directions:

1. Make a list of things you like, for example food, dessert, subject, number, candy, color, music, holiday, season, sport, emoji, video game, movie or whatever you think of that is meaningful to you.
2. Decide on at least 5 that you like the best and that you can draw.
3. Practice drawing the objects you choose before drawing on your good copy.
4. THINK about- using all of the space available, the size of the objects, and you can overlap your objects if needed. See the example.
5. Trace over all of the pencil lines with a black marker and color with crayons or markers if available.

Self Portrait Cell phone case Self Assessment.

1. What are the 5 objects you chose to use as your self portrait and why?
2. Did you use the space and make sure your objects were large or overlapped?
3. Are there any objects you would change and why?

The next page is a completed self-portrait cell phone case. You can see how the entire case has been used by drawing the objects large and how some objects overlap.

The following page is a cell phone case template for you to use to create your self-portrait.

Be creative and show us what your portrait says about you.
